

AcroClear™ Acrolein Eliminates Well Failures Squeeze Treatment Proves to be Effective for Over 6 Months

BACKGROUND

The well had failed eight times in 2008 due to FeS. Early in the year in 2009, the well had already failed three times, causing the producer to incur high operating costs for this well.

ISSUES

High levels of iron solids caused a number of problems in this producing well. A solution to this producers had yet to be found.

ANALYSIS

The local Multi-Chem technical team assessed the problem and determined that an AcroClear Squeeze into the near wellbore area might help resolve the recurring problems with high FeS.

RESOLUTION

An AcroClear Squeeze recommendation was developed specifically for this well. The well was squeezed with AcroClear in produced water and shut-in 48 hrs. The well was then returned to production.

DELIVERED VALUE

Immediately, the results of the AcroClear were evident. Produced fluids were free of iron sulfide solids. Six months later, at the time of writing this case history, the well continues to be free of solids. Additionally, the well has not failed since the AcroClear squeeze. This has saved the producer workover costs and has helped maintain high production levels.
